INFORMATION

April 19, 2018

Misty A. Camardelle
Jefferson Parish Purchasing Department
200 Derbigny Street
General Government Building, Suite 4400
Gretna, LA 70053

Dear Ms. Camardelle,

Thank you for allowing EBSCO Information Services to present this subscription proposal to Jefferson Parish Library Department. EBSCO is the leading provider of subscription services and databases. We service thousands of libraries in the United States and would welcome the opportunity to continue to manage your subscription account.

EBSCO is offering to handle subscriptions for Jefferson Parish Library Department at a 5.5% discount off publishers' list prices. This discount applies to every subscription you order through EBSCO. EBSCO intends to hold your discount firm throughout the entire contract term; however, we reserve the right to re-visit pricing for your account and initiate discussions with you if the Library's spend changes dramatically (greater than 15%) or EBSCO's agreed upon publisher terms and arrangements are significantly altered during the contract period.

As a company, our top priority is our customer. Your libraries will be assigned a personal representative who will manage your entire account; your libraries will have direct access to your representative by email or toll-free phone at any time. You will also have access to EBSCONET, our web interface for managing orders and claims. Complimentary training on EBSCONET and other EBSCO products is available to library staff and other users.

Continuing its tradition of working with libraries to help users quickly and conveniently access the content they want and need, EBSCO offers Flipster Digital Magazines as an easy way to access magazine content on the go. Flipster provides the ability for patrons to access many popular titles via computer, tablet and phone. Because EBSCO is currently your primary subscription agent, your libraries are receiving a 50% discount on Flipster digital magazine titles (currently valued at $52,000+ based on your 2018 Flipster order).

We appreciate your review of our subscription proposal.

Best Regards,

Rob Sherer

THREE (3) YEAR CONTRACT FOR A SERIALS VENDOR
(SUBSCRIPTION AGENCY) FOR A PUBLIC LIBRARY, INCLUDING A
DIGITAL NEWSSTAND SERVICE

NOTE: A subscription vendor consolidates orders for magazines, journals, newspapers, and other serial publications, allowing a library to order its subscriptions from a single source, receive a single invoice for those subscriptions, and benefit from a single source of customer service, rather than maintaining hundreds of publisher contacts. Vendors provide collective reporting, historical account records, and tracking of subscriptions on order.

SPECIFICATIONS

SERIALS SUBSCRIPTION SERVICE

The library requires a serials subscription service to supply approximately 1,550 public library oriented serial subscriptions. The subscriptions should be mainly in print, with an occasional electronic title and shall include approximately 350 unique titles; the remaining titles shall be duplicate subscriptions for branch libraries.

EBSCO understands.

The contractor must be able to supply general, popular, and uncommon public library magazine and newspaper subscriptions, as well as technical, scholarly, and reference serial subscriptions, from major and independent publishers.

EBSCO complies.

The contractor must maintain an interactive website with a comprehensive database of serial titles to provide for electronic ordering, claiming, renewing, title research, invoicing, and collection development by the library. The website must include an interactive database of all of the library's subscriptions, dates of library's subscriptions, and links to relevant invoices that the library can customize and export in a variety of formats as needed.

EBSCO complies.

The contractor's website must include customizable reports that the library can retrieve at any time, in a variety of formats; including, but not limited to, the following:

1. Current subscriptions by title and by library branch.
2. Serials changes.
3. Claims submitted.
4. Responses and dispositions.
5. Collection assessment.
6. Membership titles.

EBSCO complies.

A dedicated representative must be assigned to the library and must be readily accessible via e-mail and phone, with a back-up plan in place so that when a representative is out, queries are handled in a timely manner.

April Harrison is the Customer Service Representative assigned to personally handle any questions you have concerning orders, delivery, claims, renewals, e-journal access and troubleshooting. She is also available to assist with management reports, invoices, credits and any other requests related to your subscription account. EBSCO's Customer Service Representatives are empowered to call publishers on your behalf to resolve claims and other issues. In addition, they are experts in e-resources and receive training specifically on managing e-journals and e-packages.

April also has access to invoice and order history records and can quickly locate information about your subscriptions. April works in EBSCO's Regional Office in Birmingham, Alabama, and can be reached via a direct toll-free number (855-580-0764) or by e-mail at aharrison@ebSCO.com.

All of EBSCO's Customer Service Representatives work in dedicated teams, sharing common issues and proposing solutions. Their team structure encourages collaboration and ensures the best service for your account. In addition, this structure enables us to provide a back-up Customer Service Representative who is familiar with your account and can assist when your primary Customer Service Representative is out of the office, ensuring consistently prompt response to communications.

DIGITAL NEWSTAND SERVICE

The library requires a digital newsstand service that will host a website and apps for the library and provide digital magazines that the library can subscribe to and add to the website for patrons to check out and download.

EBSCO understands.

Available titles must include popular public library oriented magazines from top publishers. Digital magazines must be full-color, digitized versions of popular print magazines in their entirety. The digital versions must include all articles and ads that appear in print versions as well as popular digital magazine titles that are not available in print.

EBSCO complies.

A. COLLECTION DESCRIPTION

1. The annual order will be for approximately 1,550 serial subscriptions, to include approximately 350 unique titles, the remainder being duplicate subscriptions for branch libraries. Currently the library is comprised of 16 locations including 2 regional branches.

EBSCO understands.

2. The library's serials collection is comprised of approximately 90% general public library magazine and newspaper subscriptions, and 10% technical, scholarly or reference serial subscriptions.

EBSCO understands.

3. The library's current digital magazine collections include approximately 285 digital magazines. The annual order for this bid will be for approximately 150 to 200 digital magazines, with at least 97% general, popular, public library-type magazine titles.

The service is to complement the library's other digital periodicals service by offering a different selection of magazines and an alternative user interface to help the library meet a wide range of patron needs and requirements. The service may offer at least one of the largest magazine publishers that is not available via other public library digital magazine services.

EBSCO understands.

B. AWARD TIME PERIOD & COVERAGE

1. The award will cover subscriptions to be renewed and new titles to be added on an as-needed basis during the duration of the contract.

New subscriptions may include additional copies of titles already received or subscriptions to titles that are new to the library.

EBSCO accepts and places new orders at any time, including orders for additional copies of titles that have already been received.

2. The three (3) year contract will take effect on June 24, 2018, or upon acceptance by the Jefferson Parish Council, and end three years later.

EBSCO understands.

3. Payment will be on a 12-month (year by year) basis with the library making one annual payment. New subscriptions added during the year will be paid for as ordered.

EBSCO understands.

4. Award condition: all or none. The contractor must be able to provide print and digital subscriptions.

EBSCO understands and complies.

C. COST

1. The discount percent and service fee percent will be binding as quoted and will become part of the final contract.

EBSCO's offer will be binding as quoted and will become part of the final contract.

2. The bid shall be awarded on the basis of discount amount. The discount must be given on the entire order rather than on a title by title basis, regardless of the contents of the order.

EBSCO understands and complies. Please note that the discounts for subscriptions and digital magazines are different as a larger discount is available for digital magazines.

3. The discount must be given on all types and formats of serials including but not limited to newspapers, organizational memberships that are required to subscribe to a serial, specific publishers, reference works, scholarly journals, and titles with costs over a certain dollar amount.

EBSCO understands and complies.

4. The discount shall be applied to any individual quotations requested during the life of the contract. The discount shall apply to any titles that may be ordered during the life of the contract.

EBSCO's offer will be applied to any individual quotations requested during the life of the contract and to any titles that are ordered during the life of the contract.

5. Any handling/service charges must be included on a percent basis of the order. Handling/service charges shall be separate line items on all invoices to which they apply.

Should a service charge be applied, it will be listed as a separate line item on all invoices to which it applies.

6. All postage and transportation charges must be included in the invoiced price.

All postage and transportation charges will be included in the invoiced price.

You can also review publisher access information and license details, and check pricing models.

2. Contractor must maintain a database of serial titles via their website.

EBSCO maintains a database of more than 360,000 titles from 95,000 publishers. Customers may search this database via EBSCONET.

3. Contractor's website must include a comprehensive database of all of the library's subscriptions that the library can customize and export in a variety of formats.

The Summary of Publications report, available via EBSCONET, is a complete list of all titles currently on order. This report also includes the ILS number, HEGIS or fund code, publisher name, publisher group and publisher package information.

This report can be customized to include specific data elements and can then be exported into Excel, HTML, comma-delimited, tab-delimited and XML formats.

4. A Serial Title record in contractor's database must include:
 - a. An interactive list of all of the library's subscriptions to a particular title, dates of library's subscriptions, and links to relevant invoices.
 - b. Title Status, such as active, publication resumed, publication delayed, suspended or ceased, all including dates when changes took place.

 - f. ISSN.
 - g. Link to publisher's website.
 - h. Link to list of issues and dates available.
 - i. Links to claims for the title.

All of the Libraries' subscriptions are listed in EBSCONET; the information referenced above can be found in Order or Title Details at the title level.

5. Contractor must notify library, in a timely manner, when invoices are available online.

Invoices are delivered by mail or email, or by email advisement that EDI invoice files are available. Invoices that have been received are also available for download on EBSCONET.

6. Contractor must provide a toll free phone number and email directly to website tech support.

Issues can be submitted via EBSCO's Customer Support Team at any time at support@ebSCO.com or via phone at (800) 758-5995. Cases are logged and reviewed within 24 hours. In addition, you may e-mail your Customer Service Representative at any time of the day. Responses will be returned within one business day.

7. Contractor must provide complimentary training and online help via contractor's website.

Institutional staff and users benefit from accessible, knowledgeable training and technical support at no charge to you.

EBSCO's training site, <http://training.ebsco.com>, provides access to live web-based training sessions conducted by our Customer Success group; recorded sessions are available to view on demand.

Our support site, <http://support.ebsco.com/>, offers links to tutorials and support centers, answers to FAQs, email support and many more tools to help you with any issues you may experience. Our technical support team will track and update you on any issues reported via this site or our technical support email address.

Your Account Services Manager, Marsha Aucoin, is available to conduct on-site training on EBSCONET and any EBSCO subscription products or services as requested by the Library. She can customize training to fit your needs and consult on all aspects of EBSCO's services and how they integrate into your staff workflows.

8. Contractor's website must include customizable reports including, but not limited to, current subscriptions by title and by library branch, serials changes, claims submitted, responses and dispositions, collection assessment and membership titles that the library can retrieve at any time in a variety of formats.

Twenty-six management reports are available at no charge via EBSCONET. Of those, 16 are available online and generate in real time; the remaining 10 are on a request/retrieve, 24-hour turnaround basis (generated overnight). Also, EBSCONET's report schedule allows you to set up recurring requests for reports. You can customize online reports to include specific data elements and export them easily in Excel, HTML, comma-delimited, tab-delimited and XML formats.

Additional reports are available upon request through your Customer Service Representative. Simply let her know what data you are interested in and she will request a special report to accommodate your needs.

Please see Appendix A for sample reports.

9. Contractor must submit address changes and service stops, starts and restarts in a timely manner, for new and reopening libraries. Contractor must provide proof that address changes have taken place.

We notify the publisher when we receive your notification of an order change. In some instances, publishers can take a long time to update their records, so we recommend that you notify us of address changes as soon as possible.

Our system sends delivery address notifications to publishers automatically, twice a week. Your Customer Service Representative is available to help, urging publishers for prompt address changes as needed. We will send confirmation of address changes once they are completed.

10. Contractor's website must include claims records that are retrievable by title and by library branch.

Claim records can be viewed in EBSCONET at the title level. Active claims can be viewed and sorted by title or library branch in the EBSCONET Claim Checker, and a record of all claims placed for the past two years can be accessed via My Claims in EBSCONET; "My Claims" can also be filtered and sorted by title or by location.

11. To ensure that service is not interrupted, subscriptions shall be placed so that renewals start in the months following the current expiration dates.

EBSCO can place subscription orders to start at expire. We can work to achieve a common expiration date if desired.

12. Contractor will, according to publisher compliance, arrange for common expiration dates for all titles ordered if requested by the library.

We will back-date starts during the year to the first issue/volume of the year, subject to publisher acceptance, or order partial year subscriptions, as allowed by publishers, in order to accommodate a common expiration date.

13. Contractor must clear all orders direct with publishers, not through other agents, middlemen, etc. There shall be no sub-contracting of orders or claims.

EBSCO will clear all orders directly with publishers and will not use any other agents for orders or claims.

14. Contractor must be able to provide subscriptions to any serial that is available from any other subscription agency.

EBSCO offers subscriptions to 360,000 titles from 95,000 publishers. We have the most extensive title database in the industry and should be able to provide subscriptions to any serial available from other agents.

15. As evidence of the comprehensiveness of their title file, contractor must provide access to their website.

Jefferson Parish Public Libraries currently have access to the title database via EBSCONET.

16. Contractor must provide assistance in locating missing issues when regular claiming does not yield copies needed.

EBSCO will work to secure replacements, free of charge, from publishers. If a publisher refuses to supply a replacement free of charge, then the cost to you will be whatever the publisher charges us to obtain the replacement issue.

If replacements are unavailable, we will try to obtain a credit from publishers on your behalf.

17. Contractor must maintain an online complimentary issue replacement service with an inventory of issues from the past year for at least 2,000 popular serial titles that includes inventory data and allows for electronic ordering.

If you are missing an issue of a publication or a publication is damaged beyond use, you can take advantage of the EBSCO Missing Copy Bank, a free service for EBSCO customers. The Missing Copy Bank is a one-year back file of 48,000 issues from approximately 2,000 serials titles, with more than 150,000 issues distributed to customers annually. You can search for needed issues via EBSCONET and order them online or call your Customer Service Representative to order missing issues by phone.

18. Via email, contractor must furnish itemized invoices arranged by library branch which include the following:

- a. Invoice number;
- b. Title of each serial;
- c. Cost of each serial;
- d. ISSN;
- e. Start date;
- f. Frequency of publication;
- g. Subscription term;
- h. Number of copies of each title;
- i. Handle/service charge, if any;
- j. Total cost for each library branch;
- k. Total cost of invoice;
- l. Total cost of entire order;
- m. Months of publication, when available;
- n. Costs before and after discount is applied for each library and entire order

EBSCO invoices are available in both print and electronic format; PDF or Excel formats of current and prior invoices are instantly available via EBSCONET.

In accordance with our efforts to be more environmentally conscious, and because our invoice is designed to be a payment document, we have reduced the number of fields on our standard invoice. A more comprehensive invoice is available via EBSCONET.

Your invoice includes the following information:

- Bill-to Address
- Ship-to Address
- EBSCO Account Number
- ISSN/eISSN
- Title Name
- EBSCO Title Number
- Frequency
- Format
- Purchase Order Number
- Term
- Start Date
- Volume/Coverage Information
- Quantity (if more than one)
- Fund Code
- ILS Number
- Price

Service charges or discounts are listed on the item level or at the end of each invoice.

The standard monthly account summary statement shows any open items and is available electronically as a PDF or Excel file. You can view invoices and current and previous monthly statements (which reflect payments and credits) via the Financial Information link under the Orders menus on EBSCONET. EBSCONET will also show whether a given invoice has been paid in full.

20. Invoices must also be accessible electronically via contractor's website and exportable in various formats and include the data listed above.

EBSCO's electronic invoices, which include the data listed above, are available via EBSCONET and can be exported via PDF or Excel.

21. Contractor must be willing to accept orders of any size at any time, without adding an additional processing fee above the handling/service charges set out in the bid.

EBSCO complies.

22. Contractor must be willing to accept cancellations at any time during the term of the subscription and try to obtain refunds.

EBSCO can accept cancellations at any time during the subscriptions, except where prevented by publisher policy. If an order is canceled, we will credit your account an amount equal to what we are refunded by the publisher, less a processing fee of $15.00 per title. This processing fee does not apply if you elect to cancel the title at the time of renewal or if the publisher ceases publication.

In some cases, publishers will offer credits or other provisions in place of a refund. It is typical for publishers to not offer refunds on subscription terms with less than six months remaining.

Cancellations will be processed and acknowledged within two business days. Cancellation policies are included at the title level in EBSCONET for review prior to cancellation. The library will be notified promptly if cancellation is restricted by publisher policy.

23. All serials listed on each order must be delivered unless the publication has ceased, been suspended or the item is obtainable only from the publisher. In each instance, the contractor will indicate the reason for omitting the item.

Titles that are ceased, suspended, or must be ordered direct will be noted on an Invoice Action Letter sent with each invoice so the library can take appropriate action.

24. Contractor must notify the library of any changes concerning the periodical titles the contractor handles. This information should include the following:

- a. Discontinued, ceased and suspended titles;
- b. Titles that must be ordered directly from the publisher;
- c. Title mergers or splits;
- d. Name changes;
- e. Frequency of publication changes;
- f. Titles delayed or behind in publication;
- g. Titles that have resumed publication; and
- h. New titles.

EBSCONET* users will now be advised of important changes to subscriptions on a new Notifications page within the EBSCONET interface. Notifications will be displayed as EBSCONET's title database is updated, and users will receive weekly email alerts to advise when new notifications are available.

Notifications will include changes in:

- Publisher
- Frequency
- Number of issues
- Format
- Title Status (for example, if a title changes from "Active" to "Discontinued")

Reported date, title name, publisher, type, previous and new values, and effective date will be included with each notification. Notifications can be filtered and sorted within the Notifications results list and exported to Excel or other popular formats.

In addition to the Notifications page, these changes will be displayed in a new “Title History” tab that will appear on the Title Details and Order Details pages.

This new feature increases the frequency by which we notify customers of changes that impact their subscription collections and also provides an easily accessible historical record of changes at the title or order level.

Users who prefer not to receive email alerts can unsubscribe from within EBSCONET's Account Preferences.

Changes can also be accessed via the EBSCO Bulletin of Serials Changes, a monthly report detailing changes to titles on your subscription list.

The report is organized by type of change (title changes, merged titles, etc.) and indexed for easy reference. It allows for review of serials changes that only apply to your collection. You can receive the report through EBSCONET or by contacting your Customer Service Representative.

This report is archived on EBSCONET for two years.

The Customized Bulletin of Serials Changes report includes the following sections:

1. Delivery Problems
2. Frequency Changes
3. Discontinued Titles
4. Suspended Titles
5. Split Titles
6. Merged Titles
7. Name Changes
8. Resumed Publication
9. Miscellaneous Information
10. New Titles
11. Additional Volumes
12. Title Number Changes

In addition, E-Journal Updates on EBSCONET helps you effectively organize your e-journal workflow by notifying you of the following changes to your e-journal collection:

- A format is discontinued
- A new, alternative format option becomes available
- An online version of a print subscription becomes available at no additional charge
- A title has moved from one publisher to another, noting both the previous and new publisher, as well as the effective date of the change
- A title is added or removed from an e-journal package purchased through EBSCO
- New Open Access titles are added to EBSCO's title database

25. When there is a title change, contractor must not make library responsible for adding the new titles and cancelling previous titles on their renewal lists.

EBSCO automatically handles ordering of titles that have changed names, merged, split or otherwise changed. If a significant change in content or price occurs as a result of the change, EBSCO will contact the Library for approval.

26. Contractor must provide notification when a publisher has a time limit for acceptance of claims.

Claim restriction information is displayed on the title detail page on EBSCONET and is also available via the Titles with Claiming Restrictions report. This report identifies the titles in your collection that have publisher claiming restrictions. This information helps you avoid unnecessary claims and informs you of the publisher-allotted time frame for submitting a claim.

27. Five to six months prior to annual renewal time, contractor must provide, via their website, interactive Renewal Lists detailing all titles previously ordered, indicating current status, including but not limited to active, direct only, ceased, name change, current prices, renewal dates, to be used for renewal order processing. Contractor must provide a Renewal List for each library branch.

EBSCO will always generate your renewal list at least six months prior to the annual renewal date of your subscriptions. For libraries choosing to manage the renewal process online, the renewal will be available on EBSCONET; an email will prompt you when renewals are ready for your review.

Your online renewal list includes the following information:

- Bill-to address
- Ship-to address(es)
- EBSCO Account Number(s)
- ISSN / eISSN
- Title Name (in alphabetical order)
- EBSCO Order Number
- EBSCO Title Number
- Publisher
- Frequency
- Format
- Title Status
- Start Date
- Order Term
- Quantity
- Fund Code
- ILS Number
- Publisher's current price
- Total price and number of titles

EBSCO's new online renewals interface features a more streamlined user experience including a simplified grid format, the ability to make format, quantity and other changes in-line without having to navigate to another page, and a new "shopping cart" checkout experience. All titles that can be renewed will be in your cart when you access your renewal. Titles can easily be added to the cart, removed (cancelled) from your cart, or placed on hold.

Any previously ordered titles that are no longer available for ordering, such as direct order or ceased titles, will be clearly marked and will be automatically removed from your renewals shopping cart, but will remain visible under a separate tab specifically for items that have been removed from the cart. The removed items tab will also show any titles that you have opted to cancel, as well as ones that you have placed on hold.

The renewals interface includes renewal information for all ship-to addresses, however, it can be filtered by location (subscriber), start date, format and fund code, allowing for filtering for two of these parameters at the same time. The renewal can also be exported to a Microsoft Excel file for further data manipulation. Additionally, the new interface can be configured to allow users to view and modify titles for a specific branch or location, if desired.

28. Contractor must assign one individual to be responsible for the library's account. This individual must have the authority to act on the library's behalf with publishers as necessary. This dedicated representative must be assigned to the library and must be readily accessible via e-mail and phone, with a back-up plan in place so that when a representative is out, queries are handled in a timely manner.

April Harrison is the Customer Service Representative assigned to personally handle any questions you have concerning orders, delivery, claims, renewals, e-journal access and troubleshooting. She is also available to assist with management reports, invoices, credits and any other requests related to your subscription account. EBSCO's Customer Service Representatives are empowered to call publishers on your behalf to resolve claims and other issues. In addition, they are experts in e-resources and receive training specifically on managing e-journals and e-packages.

April also has access to invoice and order history records and can quickly locate information about your subscriptions. April works in EBSCO's Regional Office in Birmingham, Alabama, and can be reached via a direct toll-free number (855-580-0764) or by e-mail at aharrison@ebSCO.com.

All of EBSCO's Customer Service Representatives work in dedicated teams, sharing common issues and proposing solutions. Their team structure encourages collaboration and ensures the best service for your account. In addition, this structure enables us to provide a back-up Customer Service Representative who is familiar with your account and can assist when your primary Customer Service Representative is out of the office, ensuring consistently prompt response to communications.

29. Contractor must provide proof of payment. The invoice must be certification that publishers have been paid by the agent.

EBSCO sends full payment to publishers with your order to ensure prompt service. Generally, an EBSCO invoice serves as proof of payment for your subscriptions. Should additional proof of payment be required, your customer service representative can work with you or the publisher to provide this documentation.

The service must provide or allow for the following:

A website and apps for browsing, checking out, downloading, and reading digital magazines online or offline, accessible via a single, personal, user account

The Flipster solution offers extensive ease of access, navigation and use, with magazines that can be read online through the browser-based interface, or downloaded into the Flipster app for offline reading. Regardless of access method, Flipster offers an intuitive user experience, supporting a natural progression from browsing and searching, to reading, downloading and making the most of available content.

To briefly summarize, the first-time process is as follows:

1. In-browser: Users encounter a carousel title, hyperlink, icon or MARC record leading to the point of authentication. In-app: Users open the app, find their library with the locator, and are prompted for credentials.
2. Authentication credentials are entered/verified, and users proceed to search and browse content.
3. From the Results List, selecting a title or “Read This Issue” launches the Full Text Viewer and the latest issue opens. The majority of titles are also available for offline download into the Flipster app as follows:
 - Select a title, from the browser-based platform or within the app
 - Select Open in App (in-browser), or Download (in-app)
 - Once completed, the issue is available to read

Please refer to the following text below for more details on the steps listed above.

Platform Access and Authentication

To begin, the user must reach the Flipster platform point of entry. In-browser (desktop or mobile), this can be accomplished by selecting a hyperlink or icon, leading from the library’s website to the point of authentication. Alternatively, EBSCO provides various ways to display available content directly on the library’s website, such as a visual carousel of preferred titles, MARC-integrated catalog listings, or a custom search box experience. Upon encountering and selecting a title through any of these means, the user is also led to the point of authentication.

From this point, user credentials are entered or automatically verified, pending authentication method preference. For example, authentication is available via IP Address, Username/Password, Referring URL, Library Card or other, including options for single sign-on through any SAML-compliant identity solution. Regardless, authentication is simple and required only once per session.

Browsing, Searching and Reading Magazines

Once on-platform, Flipster users are greeted with several options for browsing and searching magazines, including basic and advanced search, as well as the ability to browse by category, or by visual carousel of Latest Issues and All Issues.

In-Browser Interface

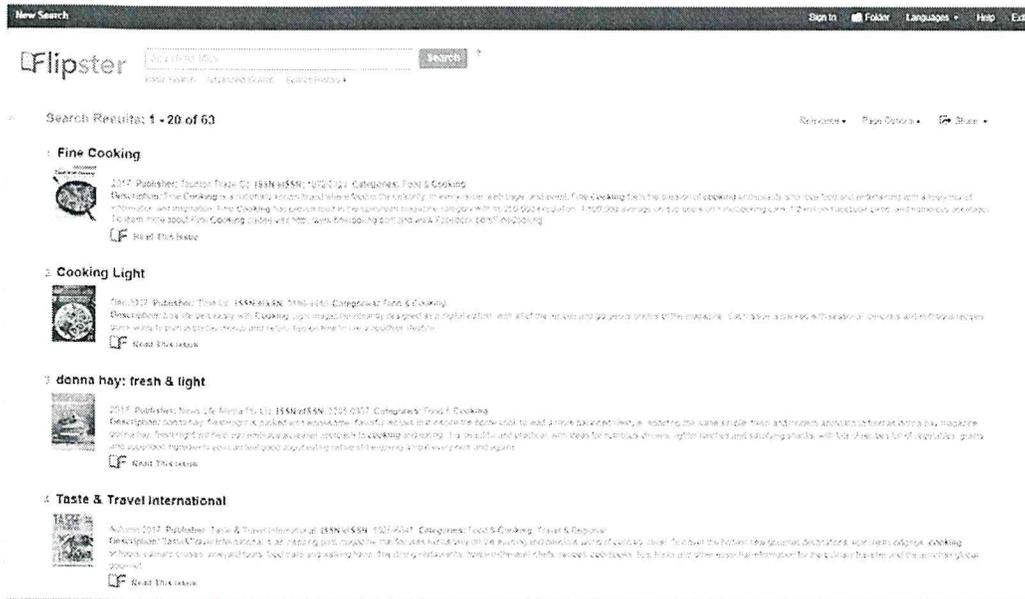

The most basic form of searching is by keyword, through a simple search box which features a clean, intuitive layout, similar to search engines encountered across the web. Search terms can be relevant to any aspect of interest, be it a specific magazine title, subject or other.

Through the Advanced Search, users have access to several added options, including choice of search modes, expanders and limiters/filters, such as Magazine Title, ISSN and Publisher. Users can also restrict keyword searches to particular fields within the index, using a drop-down menu of codes alongside the search bar. Indexed field searches can be issued in any of the following areas: All Text, Title, Category, ISSN and/or Publisher. They can also be combined with Boolean operators for a more targeted query.

Advanced Search Options

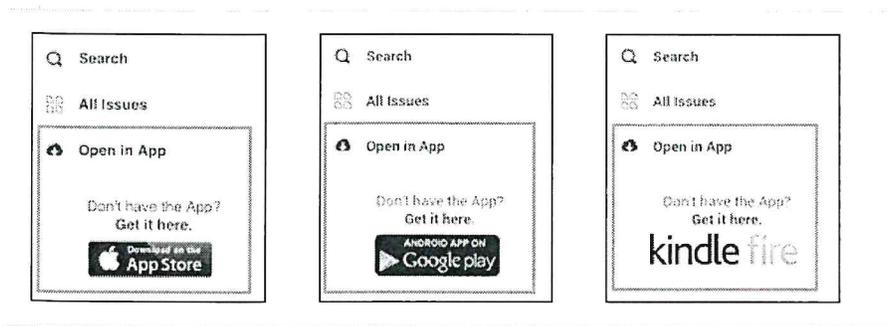

Once a search query is submitted, a category selected or a carousel expanded to “View All,” a Results List is presented. Each result includes bibliographic title information, a description of contents and link to view the full text in-browser (“Read This Issue”). Upon selecting a title’s cover or “Read This Issue,” the Full Text Viewer is launched, and the latest issue opens.

Sample Results List

Offline Download

The majority of titles are also available for offline download into the Flipster app. If accessing via mobile browser, users who select the option download a title will be presented an “Open in App” prompt. From here, they will be linked to the app, or asked to download if not already installed. Once title download is complete within the app, the issue is available to read for a select checkout period.

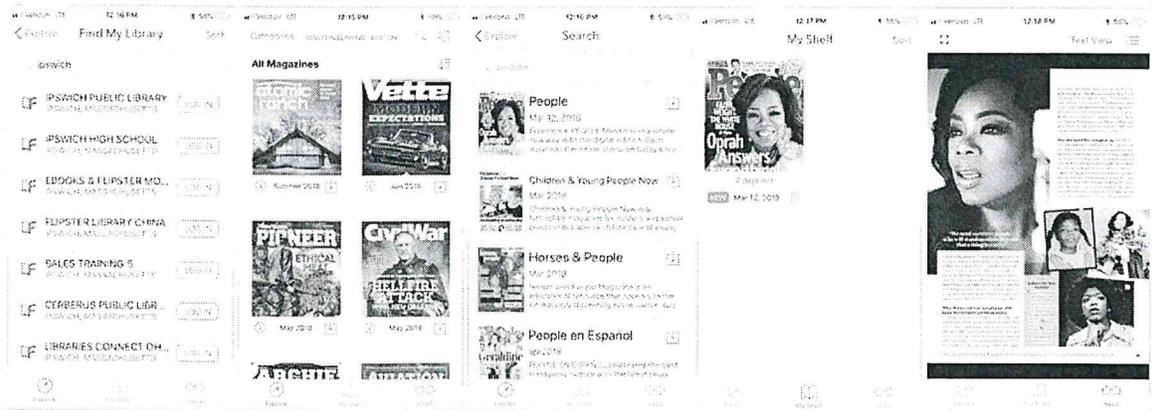

In-browser Mobile App Prompts

Alternative to the above, users may also enjoy the full end-to-end Flipster experience directly within the Flipster app. Through the app, users simply identify their library using the interactive Library Locator, authenticate once to access the library’s collection, and proceed to browse, search, read and download content. Additional benefits of the app include the following capabilities:

- ✓ Browse for your library by name or location
- ✓ Add and toggle between multiple libraries
- ✓ Access the full range of your library's Flipster collection
- ✓ Browse by "All Magazines" or "Category"
- ✓ Download current and back issues in just one click
- ✓ Easily swipe left or right to flip through pages
- ✓ Tap highlighted areas, jumping to articles and websites
- ✓ Track percentage read
- ✓ Sort e-magazines by date downloaded or alphabetically
- ✓ Toggle between a shelf of all downloads and current reading
- ✓ Multiple viewing options, including text-view only

To facilitate in-app use, all icons and labels are also clear, meaningful and easily understood, often accompanied by images for added context and definition, as can be seen within the following figure:

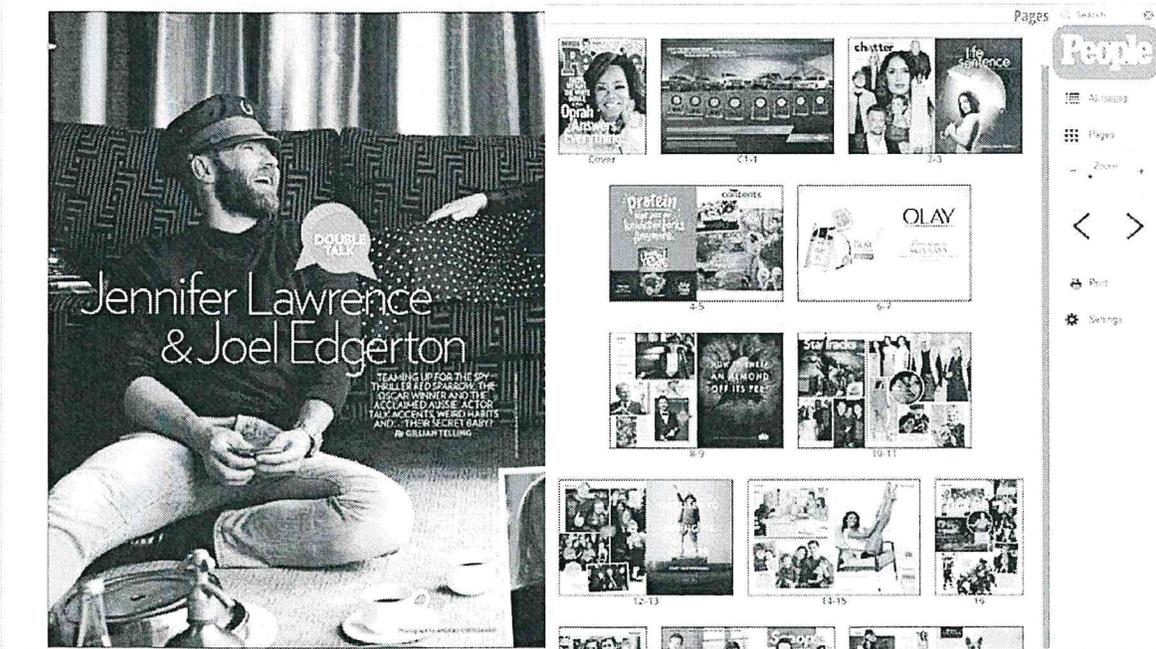

Mobile App Experience

Full color, digitized versions of popular print magazines, in entirety, cover to cover, including all articles and ads that appear in print versions, as well as popular digital magazine titles that are not available in print.

All Flipster titles are in PDF format, and a complete replica of the magazine's print version, inclusive of all ads and articles. They are available for reading in their entirety, in full color, allowing users to flip from cover to cover. Using the hyperlinked table of contents, users can also easily jump to a certain page or article, replicating the experience of print magazine browsing.

Flipster Full Text Viewer

The website must be accessible for browsing, checking out, and downloading magazines 24/7, at all of the library's locations, and remotely, wherever internet access is available.

Flipster is available 24/7/365 with a guaranteed uptime of 99.9% per year. With several options for user authentication, Flipster is also accessible from any location, local and remote, via internet-connected device. Once on-platform, users can browse, checkout and download available magazines, as preferred.

The entire service, including the library's subscription content, must be on a server hosted by the vendor.

Flipster* is a web-based service, hosted and maintained by EBSCO.

A library patron must be able to access their personal account, including checked out items, on more than one computer or portable device.

While all Flipster titles are available for online streaming, users may also download content for offline reading within the Flipster app. Flipster enables synching across mobile devices, so users can always access their total checkouts upon login.

Currently, the overall Flipster collection includes more than 1,500 magazines from top publishers, including Time, Conde Nast, Meredith and Hearst. New titles are also added monthly, and an up-to-date list can be found at: <http://flipster.ebsco.com/browse-magazines>.

EBSCO offers both detailed usage reports and complimentary marketing support, as outlined:

Usage Reports

Flipster provides access to reporting capabilities in EBSCOadmin, the online administrative module supporting EBSCO solutions. Reporting capabilities can be run at both the individual library and aggregate system levels.

Currently, Flipster provides three different types of reports:

- Platform Report (Overall Flipster Usage): The platform report will show the total number of sessions, search clicks, views, downloads and how many times a user was denied access to titles.
- Title Level Report (Usage at Individual Title Level): The title level report will track the usage of popular and used titles, including views, downloads and turn-aways.
- Issue Usage Report (Usage at Individual Issue Level): The issue level report will track the total number of views, downloads and turn-aways by title, volume and issue.

Administrators can customize these reports by selecting a specific date range, by month and by year. EBSCOadmin can run reports from the current date to two years prior. These can be scheduled to run at specific intervals or on demand by the library administrator 24/7. Administrators can also select their preferred report format, MS Excel or Tab Delimited.

All reports are offered on demand, 24/7, free of charge.

Marketing Support

EBSCO understands that library resources are only as good as a user's knowledge of and ability to use them. Educating library staff, administrators and end users about the features, functionality and availability of EBSCO's resources is key to their use and value.

Knowing this, EBSCO provides extensive promotional support ongoing, aiming to support and encourage use of the library's resources. This includes provision of a wide variety of marketing materials, such as advertisements, flyers, posters, training announcements, landing pages, bookmarks and more. Many of these resources can be requested as printed materials, or customized and printed by the library for their needs. The contractor must maintain an interactive website with a comprehensive database of available digital titles to provide for electronic ordering, claiming, renewing, title research, invoicing, and collection development by the library. The website must include an interactive database of all of the library's subscriptions, dates of library's subscriptions, and links to relevant invoices that the library can customize and export in a variety of formats as needed.

In ECM, local library staff and purchasing administrators can easily browse, search and order titles from the full range of available content. Although extensively stocked, ECM features intuitive navigation and efficient searching for an enjoyable selection process. It also features detailed information on each title available, allowing for extensive ease-of-research.

- ✓ Subscription renewal notifications

Once satisfied, the user selects Finalize Order. After purchase, Flipster titles are on-platform two weeks prior to the chosen subscription start. If the start is in less than two weeks, access is granted in 24-48 hours.

The contractor's website must include customizable reports that the library can retrieve at any time, in a variety of formats, including, but not limited to current subscriptions, title changes, claims, checkouts, views, and downloads.

As referenced above, EBSCO provides various Flipster reports via EBSCOadmin, the online administrative module supporting EBSCO solutions. Reporting capabilities can be run at both the individual library and aggregate system levels, and include the following: Platform Report,

Title Level Report and Issue Usage Report.

Furthermore, within ECM, the library can also easily monitor their subscriptions at any given time, by pulling a “Flipster Subscription Report.” This spreadsheet title list includes information regarding the site's total subscription purchases to date, including:
